

Swan Songs

fulfilling musical wishes at the end of life

An Austin, Texas based project designed to organize private concerts for individuals and families living with life threatening illnesses.

Patients have the opportunity to request a favorite style of music or local area musician.

By bringing live music directly to the home, hospital or hospice facility, Swan Songs helps to create a healing and comforting environment through the fulfillment of musical wishes at the end of life.

Swan Songs concerts are available for patients in a non-curative phase of treatment. The concerts are typically 20-40 minutes in length, with no amplification, and the selection of the music is by request and very personal - whatever is meaningful for the individual making the request is what Swan Songs strives to provide. We have fulfilled musical wishes from Scottish folk songs to bagpipe music and Elvis Presley songs.

Performers are compensated by Swan Songs, with no financial commitment on the part of the patient or their family.
